NNS Augmented Reality Team Explores HoloLens

One of the biggest technology announcements in 2015 was made by Microsoft, unveiling its holographic computing platform called Windows Holographic and a headset called HoloLens. At Newport News Shipbuilding, this announcement sparked the interest of the Augmented Reality (AR) team, particularly the research and development lead Wayne Thomasson (E04). In November, Thomasson went to Atlanta for a developers preview of HoloLens.

“When I got back from the demo in Atlanta, I told the team that HoloLens lived up to the hype... the technology is amazing,” said Thomasson. “We had already submitted a video application to get into the developers program, which is very hard to get into because of the overwhelming demand.”

devices. Dan McDonald (E04) an industrial engineer on the AR team, has been developing applications for HoloLens for about six weeks.

“My degree is in industrial engineering, so I never thought I’d be working as a developer for HoloLens and head-mounted displays. It’s awesome,” said McDonald. “The industrial world and...

Newport News Industrial Announces 52,000-Square-Foot Expansion at its Headquarters

On June 27, Newport News Industrial announced that they will undergo a 52,000-square-foot expansion at its headquarters facility in Newport News.

The facility, located at 182 Enterprise Drive, will be expanded to house production areas, heavy cranes and plate-forming equipment. The expansion will support the company’s heavy steel fabrication in the commercial nuclear power industry and will create at least 120 new skilled trades jobs. Additional parking will also be added to support the larger workforce.

“We at Newport News Industrial are excited to see this expansion come to life because it will support our work in the nuclear power industry and support our community through job creation,” said Pete Diakun, vice president of Energy Programs. “With this expansion, Newport News Industrial will be better equipped to serve its commercial and government customers in the nuclear energy space.”

The expansion is scheduled to be completed in fall 2017.

“Newport News Shipbuilding and its subsidiary, Newport News Industrial, continue to be driving forces within the local, regional and state economy,” said Newport News City Manager Jim Bourey. “Today’s announcement strengthens their competitive position in the commercial nuclear power industry and positively impacts the city with economic growth and job opportunities for our citizens.”

Melendez Named Apprentice School Athlete of the Year

Shipbuilder and senior basketball guard Jay Melendez (X43) was one of two members of The Apprentice School's athletic program honored during the 67th annual Peninsula Sports Club Headliner's Night at the Newport News Marriott at City Center on June 27.

Like many other high school athletes, Melendez fantasized of playing ball in the National Basketball Association. But those "hoop dreams" all came crashing down when Melendez received zero scholarships or offers to play in college. The Nansemond River High School graduate welcomed a new kind of reality when he decided to submit an application for The Apprentice School at Newport News Shipbuilding. Now, the four-year starter and 2016 Apprentice School Athlete of the Year uses his story to motivate others about life and personal goals.

"I use my experience to help encourage other students," he said. "I didn't know what I wanted to do when none of the colleges wanted me for their basketball programs. I thought about the military and other career options, but The Apprentice School supported my career goals and gave me the opportunity to do what I love."

Apprentice Coach Honored as Sports Person of the Year

Head Baseball Coach Bryan Cave (X73) received the Herbert Morewitz Sports Person of the Year Award during the 67th annual Peninsula Sports Club Headliner's Night at the Newport News Marriott at City Center June 27.

Cave's relationship with The Apprentice School began more than 40 years ago when he joined the school's baseball team as a pitcher. After he graduated in 1978, Cave went on to serve as an assistant and then head coach. During his career coaching the Builders, Cave has produced nearly 50 U.S. Collegiate Athletic Association All-Americans, nearly 40 United States Collegiate Athletic Association (USCAA) All-Academic team members and 29 Virginia Sports Information Director Association All-State players. In 2015, the Builders clinched the USCAA Small College national title under his watch.

his on-the-court life to be a better teammate and better shipbuilder at NNS.

"In a basketball game you have to think on your feet to overcome immediate challenges," he said. "As an outside machinist, I have to be mentally and physically tough, and I have to think on my feet all the time."

The Suffolk native was named to the 2015 Virginia Sports Information Directors All-State Team and is a two-time USCAA First Team All-American (2014 and 2015). As a senior, he led the team in scoring (17.8 points per game), rebounding (9.2 rebounds per game) and three pointers made (52).

good friend (Herbie Morewitz) who was a key figure in sports on the peninsula for many years and was a major supporter of The Apprentice School baseball," Cave said. "I was one of the last people that talked to him during a Sunday afternoon Apprentice School baseball game at War Memorial Stadium. He passed away shortly after the game that evening. I'm honored to be recognized in this way."

...the technological world are merging together, and it's great to be right at the forefront of all of it. We think shipbuilders are going to get a lot of benefit from head-mounted devices because it frees up your hands and overlays the information right onto the world around you."

The AR team has already started developing prototype applications for shipbuilding use cases. The team says that as the technology matures and the price point lowers, many jobs in shipbuilding will benefit from tools like HoloLens. Karina Lilliston (E06) a Modeling and Simulation apprentice on rotation with the AR team, has been working closely with the team developing for HoloLens.

"I've been working with HoloLens, making applications and working with the designers on the user interface," said Lilliston. "Seeing HoloLens makes me very excited to see where we're going in the future."

In observance of Independence Day, HII ran this ad in the The Virginia Pilot and The Daily Press to salute 240 years of American freedom and independence, and the men and women in uniform who protect and defend it.

AROUND THE YARD

NNS Farmers Market is Friday

Aramark and Food Service Operations is sponsoring a Newport News Shipbuilding Farmers Market from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Friday, July 8 in the visitors parking lot of Bldg. 520. Locally sourced fruits and vegetables will be available for purchase using cash, debit or credit card. Interactive Health will also be on-site to provide recipes and resources on purchasing and storing fresh produce in season. Employees are expected to attend the event on their own time with approval from their supervisor. For more information, contact Dwain Jenkins (O23) at 688-7281 or Patrick O’Keeffe at 380-3685. View the flier on Yardnet.

It’s “Jamming Season”

Conversations about “Jamming Season” are great if you’re talking about your favorite toast topper or a beach concert, but not when it comes to printing. When the weather starts to get hot and humid, the paper tends to absorb some of that moisture and create jams in printers. The majority of jams can be prevented by one simple action called paper fanning.

Illustration of paper fanning

Every morning, it is recommend that paper be removed from printers and fanned. See above illustration.

Recently Manufacturing Engineer Bradly Andersen (O67), second to the right, joined 150 men and women who are injured active duty military or disabled veterans, for the “Ride 2 Recovery” Memorial Challenge. The 340 mile bike ride started at The Pentagon in Washington D.C. and finished at the Virginia Beach Oceanfront. The ride symbolizes their long journey from surviving critical injuries that left many with physical or mental scars.

Build Clean Puzzle Contest

The 2016 “Build Clean” puzzle contest is currently underway. Shipbuilders interested in participating can obtain a copy of the puzzle on Yardnet or ask their immediate Supervisor to provide a copy. In order to win a prize, contestants must correctly unscramble the seven words listed in the “Build Clean” puzzle. All completed contest entries shall be sent via Yardmail to Loria Mooneyham (X42) in Bldg. 7, first floor. Contest entries must be received by July 22. Winners will be randomly selected from a drawing, and will be notified no later than July 29.
