NNI Crew Recognized for Safety Performance

Safety is a part of the daily routine for Foreman Tracy Spencer (N960) and his team at Newport News Industrial. The team is responsible for a variety of tasks that require close attention to safety. From group discussions to peer checking, the team has taken steps to work safely while doing their jobs to the best of their ability.

Kenny Davis (N960) said, "Safety has a lot to do with commitment to quality. If you're doing your job the right way and being safe, you're creating a better product." Davis also stressed the importance of teamwork in keeping this commitment. "We are close knit, like a family." While being safe in their own job, they also look out for each other.

For Ronnie King (N960), safety starts on a personal level. "I think about what I'm doing before I start a task, like what tools I'll be using and if I'll need PPE (Personal Protection Equipment)," he said. With 16 years of experience at the shipyard, King understands the importance of safety for himself and his co-workers.

Daily "Take 5" briefings and weekly meetings are held to discuss ways they can improve and maintain safety in their work place. Spencer also attends monthly Environmental Health and Safety meetings with his task team. He shares what he learns from the meetings with workers and takes their ideas and concerns to the task team.

"Build Clean:" It's Everyone's Responsibility

Newport News Shipbuilding's "Build Clean" initiative was adopted to ensure piping systems, components and tanks are kept clean during every step of construction until final shipboard installation and final delivery to the Navy customer. "Build Clean" means that the interior of every pipe and component is cleaned before it is ever introduced into the production process.

Depending on the ship system's application, the systems are designed with specific cleanliness controls and standards established in the ...

NNS to Provide Carrier Maintenance Support to Puget Sound Naval Shipyard

On July 1, Huntington Ingalls Industries announced that Newport News Shipbuilding received an indefinite-delivery-indefinite-quantity contract award to assist Puget Sound Naval Shipyard and Intermediate Maintenance Facility with maintenance work on the aircraft carriers USS Nimitz (CVN 68) and USS Carl Vinson (CVN 70). Puget Sound Naval Shipyard is the awarding agency.

The contract has a period of performance of two years and a maximum value of $75 million. The contract began July 1 and includes providing qualified nuclear and nuclear-related trade labor, execution of discrete work packages and training through June 30, 2017. The work will be completed at Puget Sound Naval Shipyard in Bremerton, Washington, and at Naval Base Coronado in San Diego.

"We are delighted to support Puget Sound Naval Shipyard on the maintenance of USS Nimitz and USS Carl Vinson," said Chris Miner, vice president of In-Service Aircraft Carrier Programs. "We view this as a win-win opportunity that leverages the combined experience of both Newport News and Puget Sound Naval Shipyard shipbuilders in a collaborative effort to return these warships back to the Navy fleet in a timely, cost-effective manner."

SHIPs Network Hosts 2015 Summer Intern Luncheon

On June 30, summer interns from multiple divisions gathered for lunch and to hear chief engineer Charles Southall speak. The event hosted by SHIPs Network was held in VASCIC for the 85 interns representing 49 departments across the shipyard.

Southall's message to interns was centered on "being a part of something bigger than yourself." Southall encouraged interns to be eager and to find mentors to learn from. "My purpose for being here is to continue stewardship of the company," Southall said. "It's important for me to help you carry on what I learned from my mentor."

After his speech, interns were able to ask questions. First-time intern Laura Curran (O41) said, "The speech was inspiring. I liked his message, 'Be a part of something bigger than yourself.' It's nice to see experienced employees taking an interest and guiding us."

During lunch, interns were able to socialize and had the opportunity to win prizes through a raffle.

Five Foremen Complete FQS Proficiency Board

Five Foremen completed the Foremen Qualification Standards (FQS) Proficiency Board in June. FQS is a tool used by general foremen to mentor foremen so they can attain proficiency in common areas of leadership and management. An FQS Guide, which is presented to new Foremen when they attend Enhancing Personal Leadership (EPL) for new supervisors, is used by their general foremen to track progress and establish a framework for successful performance.

General foremen recommend their foremen to appear before the Proficiency Board after they have attained proficiency on all of the tasks in the FQS Guide. The Board evaluates the foreman's knowledge by asking questions about how they implement the desired behaviors on the job. The FQS process, including completing all of the tasks in the FQS Guide and successfully appearing before the board, is rigorous and requires a significant investment in time from the foreman and general foreman. Since the program's inception in 2012, 67 foremen have completed all requirements, including the board.

All foremen who successfully completed the board were recognized with a unique FQS coin and hard hat sticker. Additional recognition will occur at an event planned later in the year.

"I'm extremely proud of my team. We've been setting small goals for ourselves and have met them. Our next milestone will be 3,000 days," Spencer said. The team recently reached their goal of going 2,800 days accident free.

Focusing on the "Build Clean" Philosophy

... early stages of fabrication and maintained throughout the installation. So that no unintended materials get inside the system during the build process, foreign material exclusion devices (FMED), which consist of various combinations of internal plugs, external caps, blanks, disc, and approved tapes, are used. FMEDs are installed by qualified personnel to strict requirements.

Under normal conditions, FMEDs remain in place until they are intentionally removed by qualified employees during installation. However, on occasion FMEDs are inadvertently removed or damaged and the system owner is not aware. Whenever a loss of cleanliness occurs, only a qualified person is authorized to determine the appropriate actions required to re-establish cleanliness.

While qualified system owners know the appropriate actions required to establish and maintain cleanliness, all shipbuilders have a role to play in "Build Clean." NNS employees are encouraged to keep a watchful eye out for missing or damaged FMEDs and to notify the system owner or a foreman in the area when a potential loss of cleanliness may have occurred.

When "Build Clean" is achieved, systems can be delivered to the customer with confidence that the requirements are met, schedule delays due to restoring cleanliness are reduced and re-work costs are minimized.

Test your knowledge of "Build Clean" by completing the crossword puzzle on p. 8.

X11 Shipfitters Recognized at Quarter Century Event

The Shipfitter Department (X11) recently held its annual Quarter Century Club event to recognize shipfitters who have gone 25 or more years without a recordable injury.

This year, the department added 10 new members into the club, raising membership to 28 total members. The combined total of years without a recordable injury for the club is nearly 800 years.

"These Shipfitters are leading the way to an injury-free workforce by setting a great example for the less experienced employees," said X11 Trade Manager Rick Machen. "These are the craftsmen that we want our newer team members to look to for guidance and to emulate their performance."

All club members are interviewed prior to the event and asked, "What advice would you give to other employees to help keep them accident free?"

Paul Davis said, "Never rush a job. Always take the proper time to set up your job safely and always be aware of your surroundings."

Wesley Newcomb said, "Always take the time to keep your jobsite clean, watch out for open holes, especially when you see a piece of tarp lying on the deck. You should assume that tarp is covering a hole."

Robert Frowmel said, "Utilize the REC (Recognize, Evaluate & Control) sheets. Anticipate hazards and always be aware of dangerous situations."
