Newport News Shipbuilding's annual Holiday Food Drive to benefit the Virginia Peninsula Foodbank (VPF) kicked off today and will run through Friday, Dec. 16. The "Shipbuilders Caring and Sharing" campaign will collect canned food items to assist the foodbank in meeting the needs of local communities this holiday season. VPF serves the areas of Newport News, Hampton, Williamsburg, Matthews, Gloucester, York, James City, Surry and Poquoson.

Food drive facilitators have placed labeled collection boxes inside designated NNS buildings, warehouses and at piers, docks and trailers (first floor locations only). Coordinator and box locations are available on Yardnet.

The Foodbank accepts all non-perishable food donations in non-glass containers. Canned items that are most needed include: meat, fish and protein (tuna, ham or chicken, beef stew, chili, peanut butter and canned/dried beans); fruits and vegetables (100 percent fruit juice, instant potatoes and fruit preserves); complete meals (pasta and sauce, boxed meals and hearty vegetable soups); and grains (cereal and rice 2# bag/box or under).

Employees now have the option to make an electronic monetary donation to the campaign by visiting www.hrfoodbank.org/shipyardfeeds. For every dollar donated, the Peninsula Foodbank will be able to provide four meals. Monetary donations by cash or check (checks made payable to the Virginia Peninsula Foodbank) can be delivered to Judy Fundak (K18) in Bldg. 520-1. All monetary donations will be credited to the donor's department and must be received by 4 p.m. on Dec. 16. For questions, contact Judy at 380-3011. Monetary donations should not be sent through yard mail. Photos above by Ashley Major.

Manufacturing and Supply Chain Management Division Recognizes EIA Honorees

The leadership team from the Manufacturing and Supply Chain Management Division recently recognized its fourth quarter Excellence in Action (EIA) honorees. Honorees were recognized for projects in the areas of continuous improvement and deckplate success.

The following projects were recognized: Heater Bar and Automatic Weld Equipment Room, Procurement Workflow and E-Vault Superusers, and Quality Management Tool – Electronic Problem Sheet.

Projects were selected based on each team's demonstration of innovation and determination. The leadership team recognized each project as prime examples of employees looking for ways to improve how they accomplish their daily work.

This was the first joint Manufacturing and Supply Chain Management EIA event and it was a celebration of achievements shared by the leadership team and the honorees.

"We have been together for a year now and we have done EIAs in both groups, but this is the first time that we have gotten together to celebrate these achievements and excellence in action," said Rob Hogan, vice president of Manufacturing and Supply Chain Management.

"One of the things that I really like about doing these things jointly is not only is it exciting and energetic and a good way for me to see all the great things that people are doing, but it's really about inclusion and diversity," he said.

"This is a great opportunity to really learn from each other and it's all about asking, 'What can I do differently today than what I did yesterday to create a better outcome?'"

To learn more about the EIA Program and to see all 4Q16 EIA Honorees, visit the EIA website on MyNNS.

Career Pathways Participates in Grand Opening Event for New Local Learning Center

Newport News Public Schools recently held a grand opening and ribbon-cutting ceremony for a new technology learning center at Crittenden Middle School. The center offers students hands-on opportunities with STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) programs including augmented reality, 3-D printing and robotics using state-of-the-art technologies.

SMALLab Augmented Reality Learning, now offered at the center, is one of only 60 in the world and the only of its kind in Virginia and blends human computer interaction with science education.

Girls with Engineering Minds in Shipbuilding (GEMS), sponsored by Vice President of Engineering and Design Jennifer Boykin, participated in the event. NNS representatives showed off new drafting tables and talked to attendees about the GEMS program and how it can lead to careers in STEM fields.

Congressman Bobby Scott, representing Virginia's Third Congressional District, and Dr. Ashby Kilgore, Superintendent, Newport News Public Schools, were present during the event.

"The suggestions and ideas contributed by the members of GEMS during Northrop Grumman Foundation's Fab School Lab makeover contest were instrumental in developing the final design of Crittenden's new Technology Learning Center," said Kilgore. "This new interactive learning center was developed by students for students; each feature engages and promotes learning. Thanks to the support of Newport News Shipbuilding mentors, our students are learning more about STEM and the exciting careers offered in these fields."

Electric Boat Christens Virginia-Class Submarine Colorado (SSN 788)

Ship’s Sponsor Annie Mabus, daughter of Secretary of the Navy Ray Mabus, christened Colorado (SSN 788) in a ceremony at Electric Boat (EB) in Groton, Connecticut on Saturday, Dec. 3. Colorado is the 15th Virginia-class submarine to be christened in a partnership between Newport News Shipbuilding and EB.

“The submarine Colorado will forever embody magnificence, adventure and freedom,” said Newport News Shipbuilding President Matt Mulherin. “The qualities are especially fitting, as they also reflect Annie Mabus’s independent spirit and strong sense of equality that she will impart on this boat.”

Construction on SSN 788 began March 2, 2011, and the submarine is expected to be delivered to the Navy in late 2017.

Reminder: Improvements Coming for HII’s Job Applicant System

On Dec. 8, the Talent Acquisition Systems Management team will launch improvements to the company’s career job applicant tracking system. Enhancements include an overall improved candidate experience and the ability to search for and apply to jobs on mobile devices. The system will retain all existing candidate usernames and passwords, but may prompt candidates to update password security questions. Users, such as recruiters, onboarding staff, hiring managers and requisition creators, should be aware that the system will keep its current functionality, but will offer a new look and feel with the upgrade. LX training will be updated to reflect these enhancements. For questions, e-mail buildyourcareer@hii-co.com.
