John F. Kennedy 75 Percent Structurally Complete

Earlier this month, John F. Kennedy (CVN 79) shipbuilders completed a superlift of the forward area of the ship's main deck, making the aircraft carrier 75 percent structurally complete.

"Thus far, this is the largest and most outfitted unit that I've been responsible for," said Construction Supervisor Council Pickett (X91). "As with any component or section of the ship, it takes a team of dedicated shipbuilders working around the clock, and I'm very proud of what the team was able to accomplish."

Kennedy, the second ship in the Gerald R. Ford class of carriers, has been taking shape at NNS since the ship's keel was laid in August 2015. The ship is being built using modular construction, a process where smaller sections of the ship are welded together to form a structural unit, known as a superlift. The superlift is then outfitted with piping, electrical equipment, cable, ventilation and joiner work and is lifted from the assembly area into the dry dock.

The 750-metric ton forward section of the main deck includes the machinery spaces located over the ship's forward diesel generators. Also installed was the first piece of the aircraft carrier flight deck, which includes command and control, pilot ready rooms and additional support spaces, a jet blast deflector and components of the advanced arresting gear system.

With the recent superlifts, 341 of the total 447 sections are currently in place. Kennedy stands about 100 feet in height in the dry dock with only the island and main mast remaining to bring the ship to its full height of 252 feet.

Annual Enrollment Ends Friday

Annual enrollment ends Friday, May 4. Employees should take this once-a-year opportunity to review their benefits and visit myalex.com/hii/2018 to learn about Huntington Ingalls Industries' benefits plans.

Nonrepresented employees should be sure to update their tobacco-use status before annual enrollment ends. This year, all nonrepresented employees' tobacco-use statuses will be reset to "tobacco user." In order to receive the preferred "tobacco-free" insurance rate (saving $660 a year), employees must update their tobacco-use status under the medical section of the enrollment hub online, or call the Huntington Ingalls Benefits Center (HIBC). Employees who do not update their tobacco-use status will be defaulted to "tobacco user" and...

NNS Dedicates Longleaf Pine Grove

Newport News Shipbuilding dedicated a longleaf pine grove with The Mariners' Museum and Park and The Nature Conservancy on April 27. The trees – the same type that were used in early shipbuilding – commemorate NNS-built ships. The trees are named Dorothy, SS United States, USS Enterprise (CVN 65), USS Gerald R. Ford (CVN 78) and USS Washington (SSN 787).

Locke Ogens, Virginia state director of The Nature Conservancy, said there used to be 1.5 million acres of longleaf pine habitat in...

Focus NNS Celebrates its 50th Episode

Watch the 50th episode of Focus NNS on MyNNS, on the NNS to Go app or on Newport News Shipbuilding's external website. This edition features Sea-Air-Space 2018, ACIBC Action Days, Earth Day and a look back at the past 50 episodes of Focus NNS.

Since its debut nine years ago, Focus NNS has provided viewers with in-depth video reports of current NNS events.

HII Family Vision Center's Grand Opening is Tuesday

The HII Family Vision Center is celebrating its grand opening Tuesday, May 1. Shipbuilders can stop by between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. to meet the optometrist and staff, shop in the retail section and take advantage of grand opening raffles and discounts. Newport News Shipbuilding employees and dependents who visit the vision center in the first month of its opening will be entered to win a giveaway basket, including a free pair of sunglasses.

Located in the Family Health Center, the vision center offers comprehensive eye care and a retail section for adult's and children's frames, lenses, safety glasses and more. All NNS employees and dependents are eligible for its services.

"We'll provide patients a complete eye exam and prescriptions for eye glasses, safety glasses and contact lenses," said Dr. David Hogge, the optometrist at the vision center. "Vision is your most important sense so we're here to promote eye health and safety." Eye exams at the Family Vision Center include free retinal imaging without dilation, allowing employees to go back to work or drive home after appointments. The vision center is operated by VSP, Huntington Ingalls Industries' vision insurance provider, and offers in-network rates to employees and dependents enrolled in HII's vision plan.

VSP is a third-party vendor. All personal medical information is protected by HIPAA and not shared with HII. Call 327-4188 to schedule an appointment.

Third Cohort Completes Buyer Certification Program

Strategic Sourcing graduated an additional 18 professionals from Phase III of the Buyer Certification Program last month. The program is a collaborative partnership with Strategic Sourcing, the Management Development Center and Pennsylvania State University.

The graduates included employees from across the Strategic Sourcing Division. This cross-functional cohort included procurement analysts, engineering planning analysts, strategic sourcing analysts, subcontract administrators and project managers. The training focused on leadership, procurement skills and developing working relationships across the division.

Several Newport News Shipbuilding leaders participated in the training program as guest speakers, including Kelly McDonald (O50), David Lambert (K70), and Bryan Caccavale (O78). Their presentations provided an overview of corporate strategy and the importance of Strategic Sourcing's role in meeting company objectives.

As part of the Communication Skills Module, Stephanie Simmons, director of Supply Chain Management Compliance, Operations and Commercial Procurement, provided what participants deemed a TED Talk-worthy presentation. "In both your professional and personal life, listening is a critical skill. By listening to the tone of a person's voice and observing their body language, you will increase the probability of fully understanding the message being communicated to you," she said.

Sixty one shipbuilders have completed the program to date. The leadership team plans to kick off Cohort 4 in the third quarter of 2018.

John F. Kennedy 75 Percent Structurally Complete

A third key milestone also was achieved last week when the first two generators supporting the electromagnetic aircraft launch system (EMALS) were installed.

“We are very proud of the progress we are making on the Kennedy,” said Lucas Hicks, vice president of the CVN 79 Program. “The ship now is 75 percent structurally erected and more than 40 percent complete. Many of the improvements we have made over the construction of CVN 78, including increased pre-outfitting and performing more complex assemblies in our shops, will allow us to launch the ship three months earlier than planned.”

Engineer Matthew Clark (E25) has temporarily shifted to the CVN 79 Program Office to help coordinate Kennedy's launch. “We’re ensuring that there is good visibility on all of the work that needs to happen to get to early launch,” he said. “Looking beyond that, we’re also working to understand and shed some light on the items we want to have complete to set the test program up for success once the ship leaves dry dock.”

Kennedy is scheduled to be christened in the fourth quarter of 2019 and delivered to the U.S. Navy in 2022. Watch videos on MyNNS of the flight deck and main deck superlifts.

Poquoson High School students William Chapman and Johnathon Shannon participated in the event for the second time this year. Both said it has influenced their plans for the future.

“The competition is a good indication of how engineering is in the real world. There’s always ups and downs. You might have to restart because something happens,” said Shannon, who plans to study mechanical engineering in college. “If you’re interested in the field of engineering, it’s a good program to try out. It definitely helped me figure out what I want to do.”

Chapman has his eyes set on a slot at The Apprentice School. “The competition is how I found out The Apprentice School existed. I have applied, and my intention is to come here as soon as I can.”

Ryan hopes even more teams will participate in coming years – especially those from high schools in Hampton Roads. “I would challenge everyone – especially if they have children at a local high school – to encourage students to participate in the competition next year,” she said.

Race day for the top four teams is 9:30 a.m. until 1 p.m., Saturday, May 5, at The Mariners’ Museum’s Lions Bridge. The event is open to the public, and Ryan encourages shipbuilders to bring their families to support the student teams.

Shipbuilders interested in volunteering at the race day event should contact Tim Mills at tmd28142@email.vccs.edu.

SNAME Boat Design Competition Wraps Up Saturday

More than 200 high school students from across Virginia and as far away as New Jersey entered the 11th annual Boat Design Competition, hosted by The Apprentice School Student Section of the Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers (SNAME).

Participating teams submitted boat designs and were invited to a luncheon at The Apprentice School in late March where the four finalists – chosen from nearly 50 teams – were announced. At the luncheon, students had the opportunity to browse boat design displays from different teams, tour Newport News Shipbuilding’s mobile experience (MX) trailer and learn more about The Apprentice School and NNS.

“It’s really exciting to see how happy the students are to check out the designs. They really enjoyed the MX trailer as well,” said Jennifer Ryan, faculty adviser of The Apprentice School Student Section of SNAME and an adviser for the competition. “Hopefully, we interest participants in either coming to The Apprentice School or going to a four-year school and coming back to work as a shipbuilder after college.”

The final four teams – representing Jamestown High School in Williamsburg, the Advanced Technology Center in Virginia Beach, Briar Woods High School in Ashburn and Walter Johnson High School in Bethesda, Maryland – will race boats they designed this weekend.

X32 shipbuilders build the boats designed by the students for the race. Ryan said the competition gives apprentices – who lead the competition – an opportunity to showcase their

Parking and Transportation Updates

West Avenue Garage

Newport News Shipbuilding employees with any color decal can continue to park on the top two decks of the West Avenue Garage, located between 30th and 31st streets, through the end of June. The company's external shuttle picks up and drops off at the 31st Street Gate and transports employees to the Bldg. 903 Garage, and 50th, 46th, 42nd and 31st streets.

Reminder: Changes to NNS' Internal Shuttle

Beginning April 30, the company's internal shuttle service will be reduced by two shuttles to accommodate various transportation needs across the shipyard. NNS will continue to support the internal shuttle services with eight buses during the peak traffic times. The internal shuttle route will remain the same, however, the cycle time for internal routes will take approximately 10 minutes longer. As a result, employees utilizing internal shuttle services should allow additional time to get to and from their destination, especially during peak travel times.

The internal shuttle services the entire internal route from 5 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. on weekdays. For additional information, visit the Park-and-Ride website on MyNNS.

Huntington Avenue Bridge Replacement Project

The city of Newport News will begin a project to replace the Huntington Avenue bridge this spring. Once construction starts, several motorcycle parking spaces along 41st Street at Bldg. 520 will be removed. To offset the reduction in motorcycle parking, NNS has converted a portion of the executive parking area, directly adjacent to Dorothy, into employee motorcycle parking only. These spaces are currently available for use and will remain available throughout the project. Employees should pay close attention to signage and markings. The parking area closest to Bldg. 520 will remain reserved. The city expects to set a start date this week for the project. Once NNS receives these dates, they will be communicated to employees.

NNS Breaks Ground on 16th Habitat House

Newport News Shipbuilding hosted a ground-breaking ceremony on April 23 for the 16th home it will build in collaboration with Habitat for Humanity Peninsula and Greater Williamsburg.

The new home build in the southeast community of Newport News will celebrate the lives of Everett H. Jordan Jr., the former director of The Apprentice School and 44-year veteran of the shipyard, and Ron Nelson, a longtime Habitat construction supervisor.

The men met in 2002 when the partnership with NNS and Habitat began, and they formed a friendship and helped build a stronger foundation for low- to moderate-income families in the area. Jordan and Nelson died in February 2018 and November 2017, respectively.

"When our company began partnering with Habitat for Humanity, Everett was put in charge of the partnership," Ray Bagley, vice president of Trades Operations, said during the special ceremony. "He took great pride in his role and continued to coordinate and engage in our efforts in all 15 houses we've built so far for these deserving families.

"Like Everett," he said, "we're proud to be a part of this important program and proud that some of our shipbuilders can also call themselves homebuilders." Read more on the Huntington Ingalls Industries website.

...southeastern Virginia. "When John Smith and Christopher Newport came to Virginia, they found the potential of the longleaf forests regarding Britain's sea power," she said. The trees contributed to Britain's military and commerce. By the 20th century, the trees were almost gone.

"The tree species was decimated when wooden ships were in fashion," said Mariners' Museum and Park Operations Manager Dave Kennedy. "The industry used the wood because it was hard and full of resin and sap, making the wood waterproof."

Dru Branche, director of Environmental Health and Safety at NNS, said it's fitting that the shipbuilding industry, which is partially responsible for the near extinction of the longleaf pine, is now contributing to its repopulation.

"Going forward, every time NNS delivers a ship to the Navy, another tree will be planted in the grove," she said. "The trees will take on the names of the newest named ships." Each longleaf pine planted at The Mariners' Museum and Park is a way of giving back to the environment. The museum will offer a $1 admission fee, Memorial Day through Labor Day. Guests can see the longleaf pine grove for free by visiting Harvey Field at The Mariners' Museum and Park.

NNS Badge Reminder

Security and Emergency Management reminds Newport News Shipbuilding employees that company identification badges must be displayed in plain sight on the front of the torso between the shoulders and waist at all times while on NNS premises, except when prohibited by working conditions. Badges should not be attached to hard hats or other headgear, or in any manner that could constitute a safety hazard.

Badges should be removed and stored out of sight when employees are not on NNS premises. Badges should not be photographed, photocopied or otherwise reproduced.

Support Relay For Life

Newport News Shipbuilding is partnering with the American Cancer Society to support this year's Relay For Life fundraiser with a goal to raise $50,000. On June 1, NNS is participating at events in Yorktown and Chesapeake.

Shipbuilders can register or make a donation at RelayForLife.org/NNS.

Participants will receive an NNS Relay for Life T-shirt. People who relay can also purchase a luminaria to decorate and light at the event for $10. For more information, or to purchase a luminaria, contact Christina Chapman (E73) at 534-2652 or via email.

Win Tickets to a 2018 Virginia Arts Festival Performance

As a sponsor of the 2018 Virginia Arts Festival, Newport News Shipbuilding has a variety of tickets to events included in this year's festival. Events will be held in May and June.

To distribute tickets to employees, NNS will hold a drawing Monday, May 7. As names are drawn, selected employees will be contacted for a chance to win two tickets to a Virginia Arts Festival performance.

Employees interested in entering their name into the drawing should send an email to Judy Fundak (K18) with their name, PERN, department and a phone number where they can be reached by close of business on first shift Friday, May 4. For questions, contact Judy Fundak at 380-3011.

ISO 9001 Audit Planned for May 7-10

Newport News Shipbuilding will undergo a surveillance audit of its Quality Management System (QMS) May 7-10. The American Bureau of Shipbuilding Quality Evaluations (ABS-QE) will conduct this audit.

An audit team will review work documents associated with many of the areas of the shipyard, including records for equipment calibration, training, production control, product testing, internal audits, and corrective and preventive actions.

Auditors may also request to randomly interview employees in both nuclear and non-nuclear work areas about work procedures to evaluate their work practices, overall awareness of Newport News' quality management policies and the knowledge of the impact their work has. Employees should answer questions about how they normally accomplish their work.

During the last audit, several people and departments were asked about their work processes. Managers, general foremen and supervisors should emphasize to employees the importance of having knowledge of their work procedures and working to authorized procedures and drawings.

A successful audit will maintain the shipyard's ISO 9001 certificate for the Quality Management System. The shipyard was first certified to ISO 9001 in 1993 and has renewed the certification every three years since. For more information, contact Remona Price (O04) at 380-2889.
